

NICE to Showcase Leading Digital Evidence Management and Incident Investigation Solutions at B-APCO 2016

NICE Systems will demonstrate why over 3,000 police forces worldwide rely on its digital policing solutions at Europe's leading public safety communications exhibition & conference - B-APCO 2016.

B-APCO 2016 takes place from 22nd until 23rd March at The International Centre, Telford, UK and on Stand C7, NICE will showcase NICE Inform and NICE Investigate. NICE Inform is the industry-leading digital evidence management solution, giving emergency communications centres better insight into how to continuously improve their operations. NICE Investigate is the leading open, digital policing solution that automates and expedites the entire digital investigation process, helping to increase case clearance rates.

Public Safety Marketing Manager at NICE Systems, Jamie Wilson, comments: "At B-APCO 2016 we will showcase how NICE Inform and NICE Investigate enable police forces to better handle new evidence and information sources, speed up the investigation process and reduce the requirement for officers to be desk-bound. Additionally, we will demonstrate how the majority of forces already have the necessary technology foundations in place from which to build their digital policing operations."
